Foreword

It is our sincerest wish that the 1920 Ion may aid the Greater Hardin Project. Of the merit of the Ion, your past and present support speaks for itself, for which we heartily thank you. If we have fashioned a memorial in your hearts, school patrons, teachers, and classmates, may we earnestly hope it is not in the quicksand of current interest, but the marble of true and lasting friendship. We know you will not coldly criticise what has been constructed in the glowing, loyal heat of enthusiasm; therefore, it is with pride and pleasure we invite you to turn the following pages.

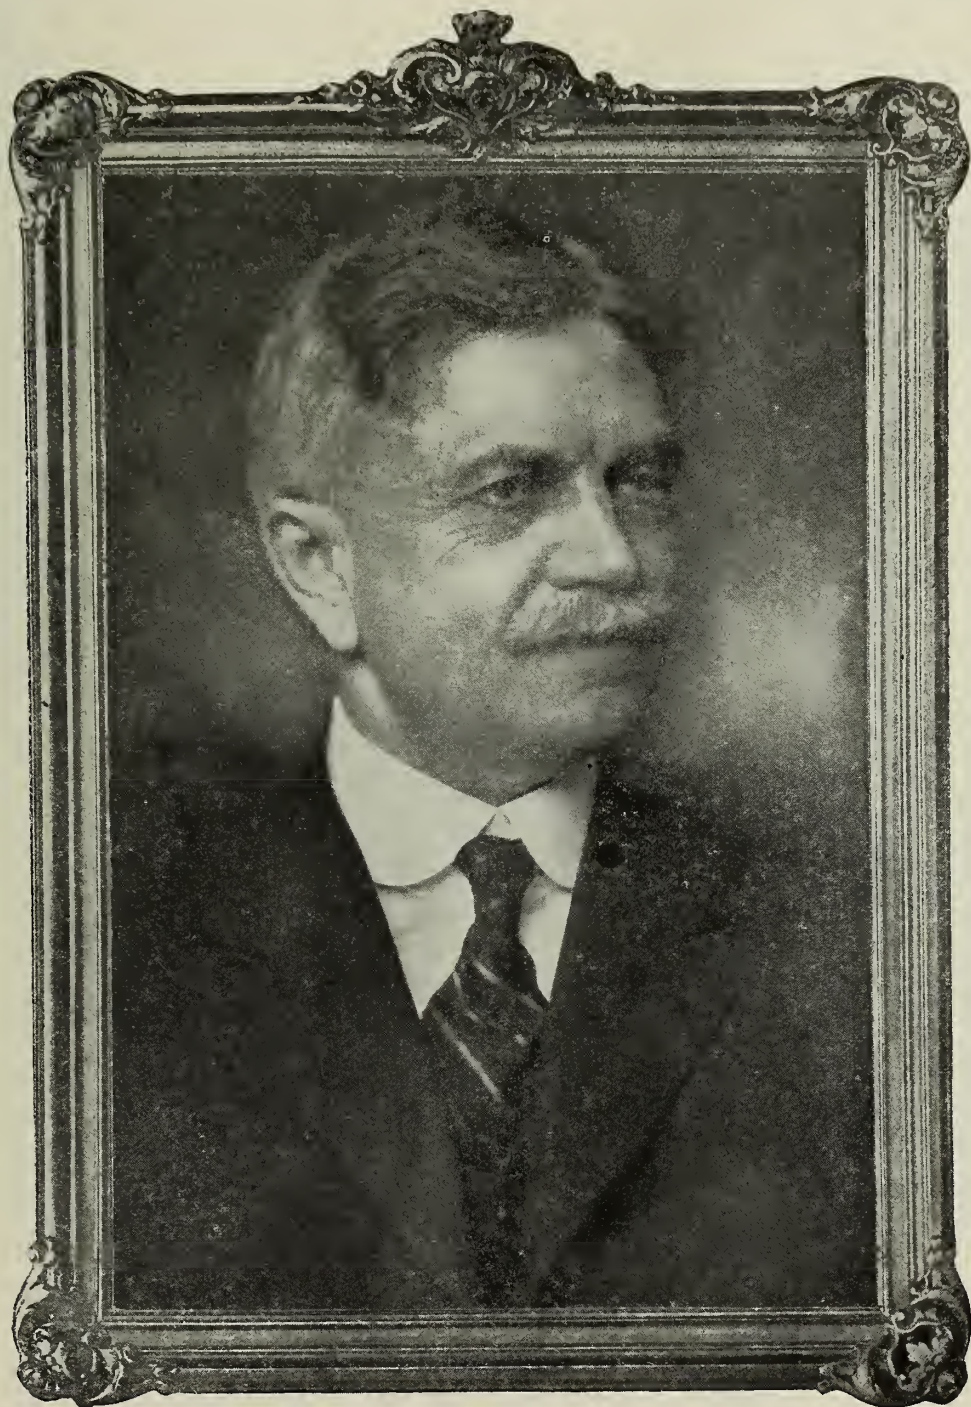

We are indebted to the Board of Directors for their support in the publication of this book.

Dedication

To our beloved President, who has made
Hardin what it is today,
and who has paved the way for her brilliant future.
we dedicate this 1920 Ion.

■ ■ PRESIDENT JOHN W. MILLION, A.M., LL.D.

The Spirit of Hardin

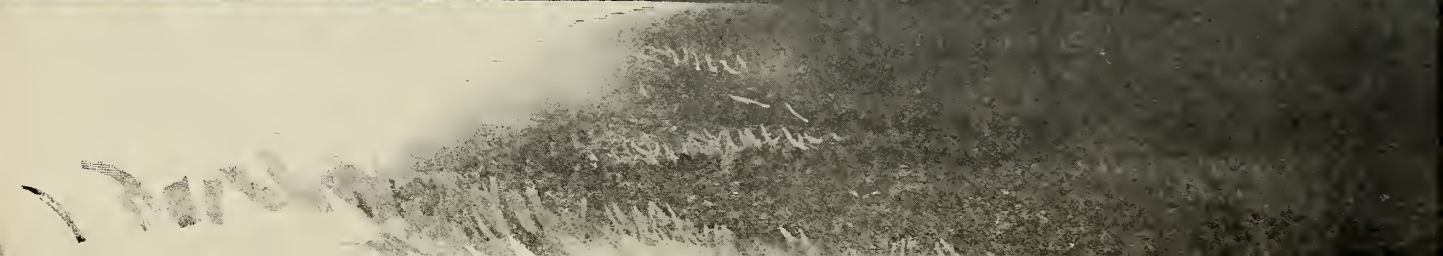

OF Hardin College loud we sing;
To Hardin College praise we bring,
For this dear College staunch devotion
In everything for her promotion.

The Hardin spirit urgeth growth
In love divine and learning both.
The Hardinite rejoiceth ever,
Her fealty can nothing sever.

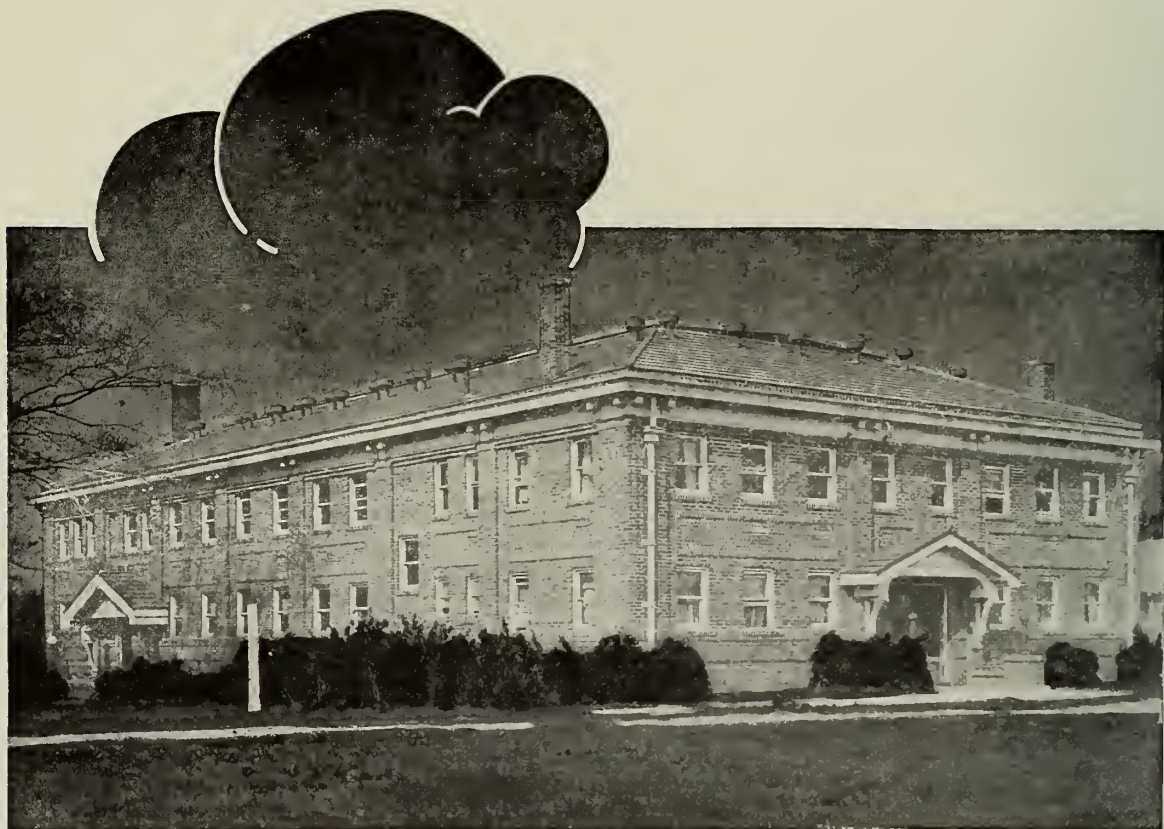

The Hardin "soul" will ever live,
And to the student courage give.
A greater Hardin we shall see;
The life and growth will wondrous be.

—E. M.

Hardin "Pep"

Hardin "pep," did you say?
Yes, we see it every day.
It's "pep" in every girl that's here
That makes her come another year.

Hardin "pep"? Yes, it gives us vim,
Makes us tidy, neat, and trim;
Makes us study hard each night,
Makes us win our cause or fight.

Hardin "pep"? Best in old Missou—
It's the kind for me and you.
Tell it now, tell it all,
Bring more girls with you next fall.

—W. G.

BEAUTIFUL HARDIN SCENES

Our Hardin

Oh! Dearest Girls of Yesterday,
You, too, loved Hardin, dear;
From early fall to last of May,
You came and stayed each year.

We Girls of Today love Hardin, too;
We have found her truest worth.
We love her just as much as you,
This dearest school on earth.

You loved the dear old gateway,
With its ivy clinging 'round;
Nor any song, nor any lay,
Could its praises bound.

Oh! Girls of Tomorrow, to you we give
A heritage of gold.
Lives of honor you must live,
With good deeds manifold.

Oh! Girls of Tomorrow, take this well,
Our Hardin we leave to you,
And to the world her virtues tell,
May you ever to her be true.

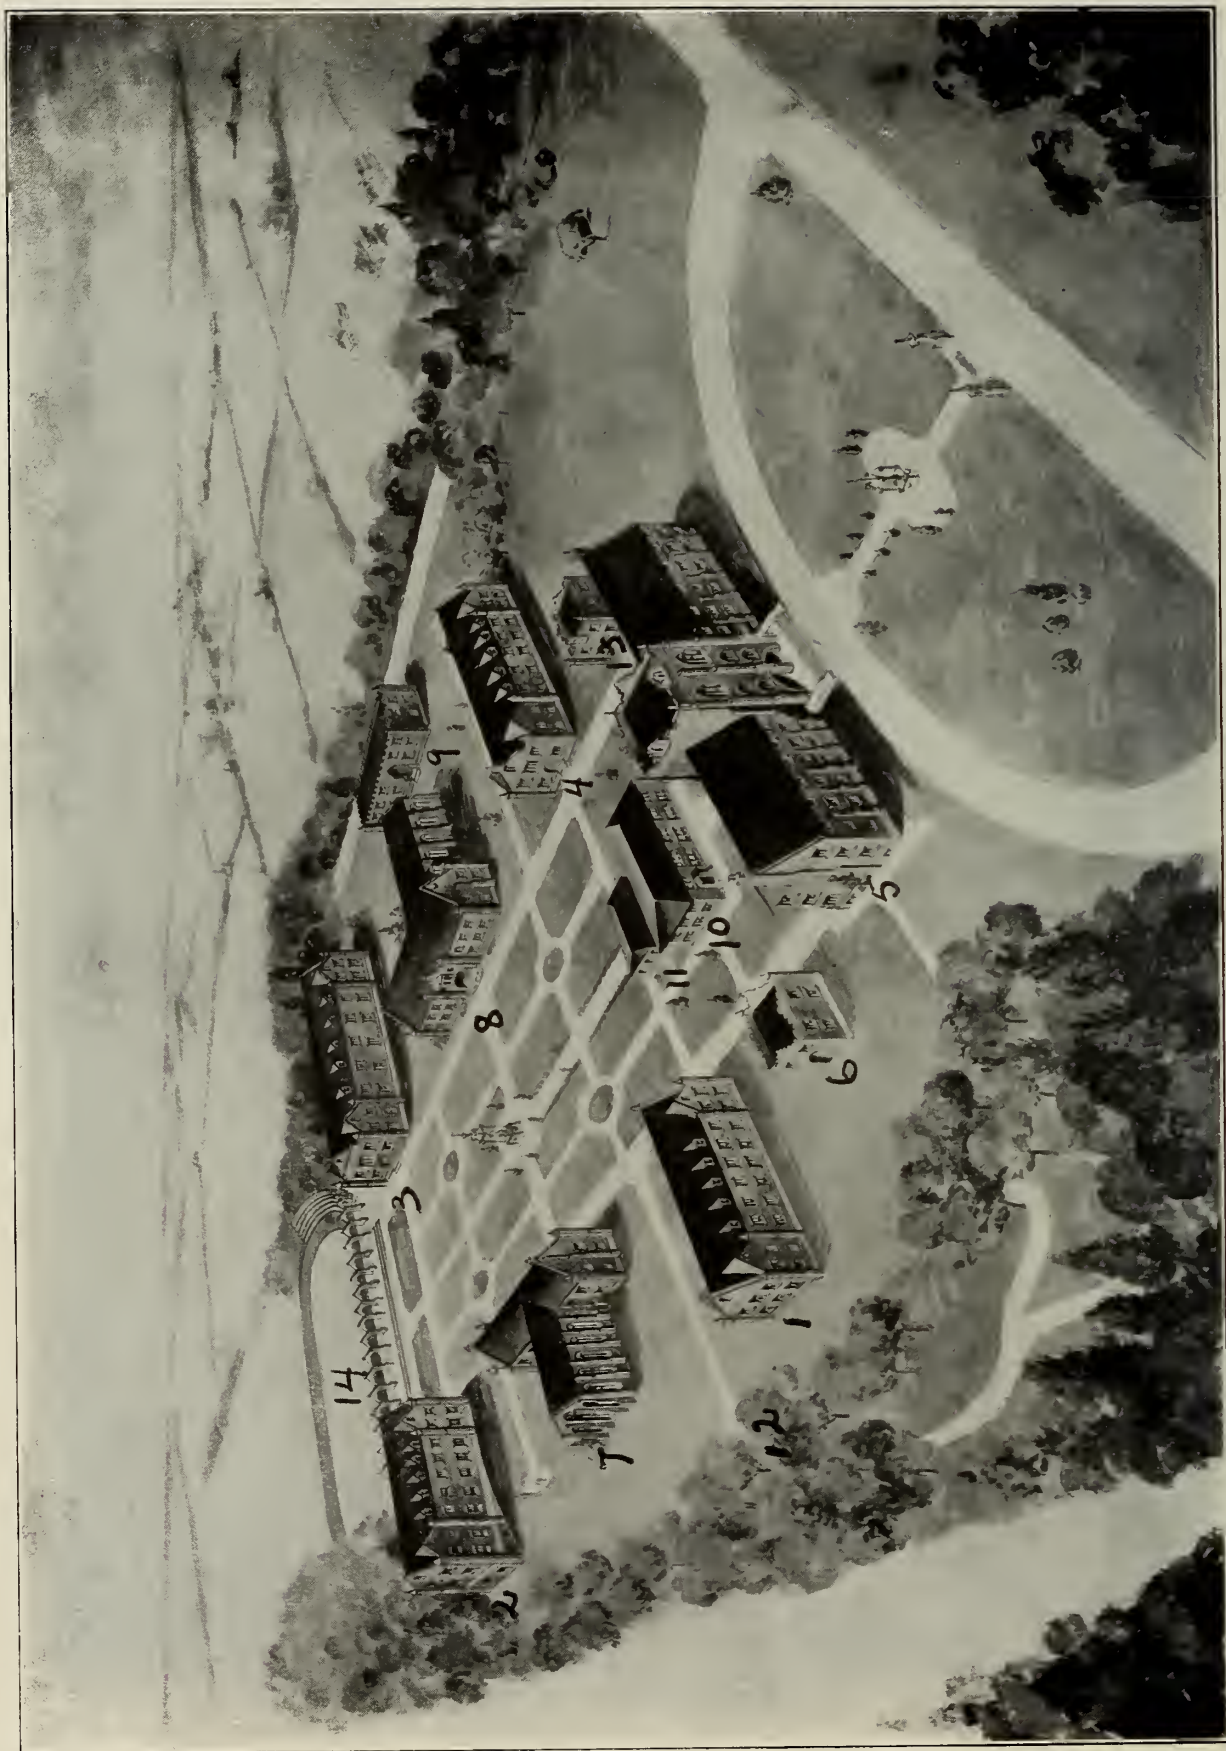

—A. B. P.

NEW PLANS FOR GREATER HARDIN

Greater Hardin

Hardin College was founded in 1873 by Charles Henry Hardin, a lawyer, statesman, and later a Governor of Missouri. For endowment and other purposes, Mr. Hardin gave $70,000, while the citizens of Mexico supported his plan by giving the grounds and buildings for the institution.

The purpose of Mr. Hardin in founding the school was, indeed, noble and characteristic of his high and lofty ideals. Mr. Hardin's foresightedness enabled him to see that a school for young women would be a lasting benefaction; and that young women were entitled to the educational advantages which heretofore too often had been reserved for young men.

Thus, the foundation was laid, and the goal was in sight. Under the administrations of able presidents, the school grew steadily and persistently with increasing enrollments every year. With girls coming in larger numbers, new needs arose for new dormitories, and these needs had to be met. Dr. Million realized that Hardin's success in educating and developing young womanhood must be continued. He dreamed, worked, and planned for ways by which the work might be carried on.

In the year of 1919, hopes and dreams began to be realized. Visions of the new Hardin were in sight, and plans were laid out. A campaign for $500,000 was initiated in May, 1919, and the work of "carrying on" was commenced.

Mr. George K. Nickerson was secured as director of the campaign, and immediately interest was aroused in every citizen in Mexico. The first work consisted mainly in impressing the public with the importance of the drive, and in making plain to everyone the "Greater Hardin Vision."

Through the realization of what a school like Hardin means to a town, the people of Mexico responded readily to the call, and from them was obtained	$100,000
From the results of the Baptist State-wide drive, the school will realize in a five-year period.....	50,000
Out of the Christian Education Fund of the Baptist Churches of the State, $50,000 a year for five years, Hardin has been allotted 15 per cent, or $7,500 annually, all to be expended each year of the five years. This sum capitalized at 5 per cent is the same as 5 per cent income, or.....	150,000
On February 23, 1920, the Education Committee of the Board of Promotion of the Northern Baptist Convention, in session at Buffalo, New York, after granting a special hearing to President J. W. Million, allotted to Hardin College, out of their drive for $100,000,000 plus, to be completed in May, 1920, the sum of.....	250,000
These sums, as prospective additions to the funds of the college in the ensuing period of five years, make a total of.....	550,000
In order to understand the proportions to which Hardin will attain at an early date, one should keep in mind that Hardin has now on hand a self-increasing endowment fund of.....	100,000
To this should be added the physical properties, buildings, grounds, etc., at the present time conservatively valued at.....	210,000
Grand Total.....	$860,000

The goal in the mind of the Board of Directors and Management of Hardin at the present time is to develop the institution as speedily as possible until it attains the proportions of $2,000,000, one-half in physical property, and one-half as a sustaining endowment fund. The institution will remain a junior college.

Artist Course

The outstanding features of the Artist Course were the recitals by Arthur Middleton, baritone and member of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, and Reed Miller, tenor, and Mme. Van Der Veer, contralto, two of America's leading oratorio and recital artists. In addition to these, the Montague Light Opera Singers gave an interesting concert of music from the most prominent light operas of the day.

The purpose of this series was to give students of music of Hardin Conservatory an opportunity to hear the best music artistically given as frequently as possible. It is a necessity to one who would learn to play or sing with musical understanding to hear as much good music as possible. This need was met by this series of recitals and concerts. The programs given by these visiting artists included the greatest songs, arias from great operas and oratorios and ensemble numbers. When viewed as a whole they presented to the students a very complete and varied number of compositions illustrative of the best in music.

Presented by artists of world-wide reputation, whose services are sought by the leading musical organizations of the entire country and who sing to large audiences in the great cities, these programs gave the students of Hardin examples of the most artistic work, supplementing the instruction given by the teachers of the conservatory in the most practical and helpful way.

It is the purpose of the college authorities to continue this policy of bringing great artists to the college and to raise the standard continually, so that students who attend Hardin may have the fullest opportunity to become acquainted with all that is best in musical literature.

"The true purpose of art teaching is the education of the whole people for appreciation."—Dow.

Purpose in Art

An intelligent understanding and a sympathetic appreciation of the principles of art structure are essential to a well-rounded education.

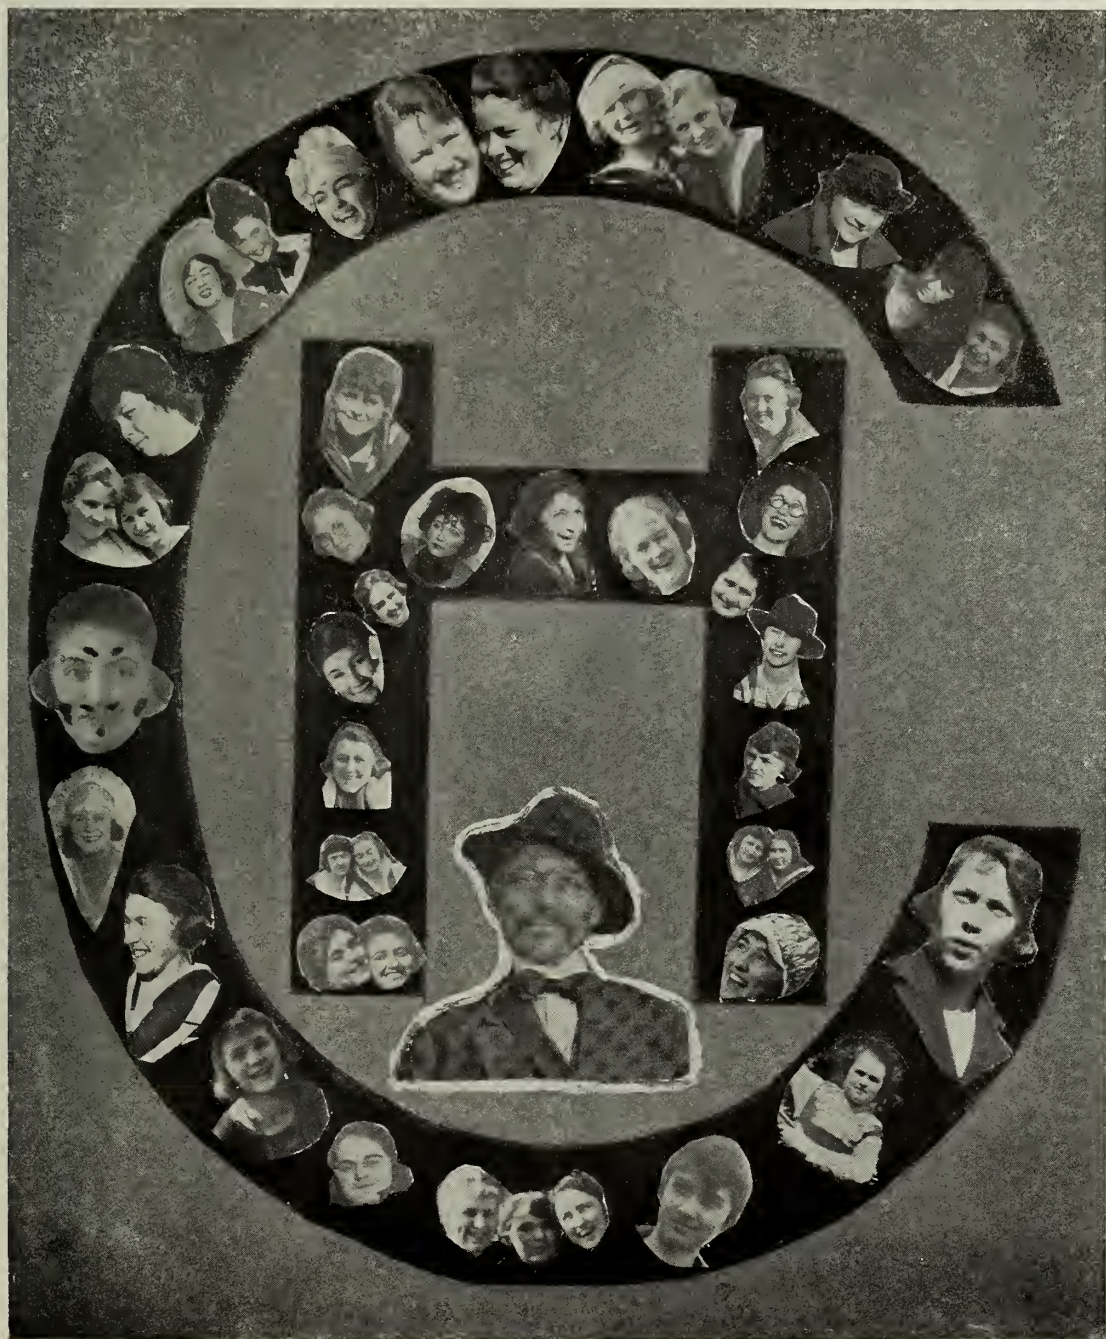

It is believed that this understanding and appreciation can be acquired only through the cultivation of visual sensitiveness. The most direct and possibly the only path to visual discrimination is that of carefully guided practice.

The chief aim throughout all art courses is to develop in the student the power to respond to beauty of line, form and color as a basis for an intelligent interest in art. In other terms, she should learn how art may function with life and bring beauty into every-day living; she should learn what constitutes beauty, how she may recognize it, and how it may be obtained.

Instruction, therefore, should be given as much with a view to developing an appreciation of art as to creating proficiency. The aim of art study in Hardin is to give to all students power of expression, and to lay a technical foundation upon which the more gifted may build.

"Say, the Dramatic Club has been a pretty live organization this year, hasn't it? I used to think it was a place where girls went and learned to rave madly on like Sara Bernhardt, with no apparent effect except to cause their 'Roomies' to have nervous prostration, but the club this year has been doing things."

"I don't seem to remember anything in particular that they have done this year."

"You don't? Why, have you forgotten that perfectly grand tea they gave in the front parlors last fall, where all the Seniors and Post-Graduates read, and Miss Pilchers' string quartette played?"

"O yes, that's the one when the town ladies, the wives of members of the Board, poured. I remember the parlor was all decorated in the rose and gray colors of the club, and everything looked so lovely."

"And the Club girls all wore white dresses with broad bands of rose and gray across their chests. I thought they looked awfully nice. The whole affair was a grand success. And then that play, 'Pygmalion,' the Club put on just before Christmas, wasn't that fine?"

"I should say. I never was so thrilled over anything in my life. Those Greek costumes looked rather queer, though. I remember Pygmalion's wig was a scream."

"But the play surely was a success. I heard lots of people say it was one of the best amateur productions they had seen for a long time. Besides that, you know they are giving recitals every two weeks now."

"And their programs are good, too. The girls say it's awfully painful to have to appear so often, but it surely does make a nice entertainment for the faculty and us students, and we enjoy hearing them perform. Yes, I believe I do agree with you that the Dramatic Club has been doing some lively work this year."

CAPT. AGNES ATTERBURY, Right Forward—

Aggie plays both guard and forward. She is there anywhere, everywhere, all the time. Because of her ability to shoot goals, she has proven to be an excellent forward.

MABEL HILL, Left Forward—

Mabel is small, but a fast player, and so accurate that she seldom ever misses a goal.

MABEL LEAHY, Right Guard—

Mabel is another bright light. She is a snappy little player, always sticking with her forward and giving them few chances to make a goal.

THELMA FARQUHARSON, Left Guard—

Thelma is one of the steadiest players on the team. She is speedy and accurate, and very seldom ever lets her forward make a goal.

SUE Jo HOOD, Right Forward—

Sue Jo was one of the best forwards Hardin has ever produced. We were very unfortunate in losing her, but on account of the "flu," she had to leave us.

BONNIE ENLOE, Second Center—

Bonnie always manages to get the ball. She is a fast, nervy little player with a bright future.

ALICE JOHNSON, Jumping Center—

Alice has held her present position for two years. She is rough and fast, and can out-jump anyone put up against her.

GERTRUDE GRAHAM, Sub. Forward—

Gertrude was one of the most faithful when it came to basket ball. She seldom ever missed a practice. She is fast and very accurate in making goals, but, like Mabel C., lack of experience kept her off the team.

MABEL CLARKE, Sub. Guard and Center—

Mabel was the general all-around player. She was fast and accurate, but lack of experience kept her off the team.

DOROTHY POWELL, Sub. Guard—

Always there when it comes to getting the ball, and it takes a good forward to get around her.

Hardin Basketball Girls

This is our coach—So, so!
She'll make you play—my-O!
She furnishes the pep
And keeps up our rep—
This is Mrs. Turner—Ho-Ho!

See our jump center—O-jump!
She makes them say—"O-hump!"
Watch her with a ball
When the whistle does call—
This is Alice Johnson—O-jump!

Our speedy guard—My-My!
Just like a leech—O-cry!
She'll follow you 'round
And plays with a bound—
This is Mabel Leahy—My-My!

Our silent guard—O-boy!
To play is life for her—O-joy!
You can be near her
But never hear her—
This is Thelma Farquharson—O-boy!

Quick little center—See-See!
See her with the ball—O-me!
She surely can play,
She does it every day—
This is Bonnie Enloe—See-See!

A fast little forward—Look out!
See that little goal?—Do shout!
She's there every time,
She's worth many a dime—
This is Mabel Hill—Look out!

Another forward—Do tell!
She shoots those goals—So well!
Like a star so bright,
A streak of light—
You have Agnes Atterbury—Do tell!

Review of Basketball Season

Basket Ball in Hardin in '19-'20 was under the weather on account of the "flu" and the season was limited to only seven games. But this was only our bad luck, and we are, indeed, very sorry.

With most of last year's team back, Mrs. Turner and Mr. Lindsey built up a team which, though extremely light, was reputed to be one of the fastest in Missouri.

The first game was with Troy High and was played on the Hardin court. We won this game, 25-11, and in a couple of weeks returned the game, playing at Troy. This game was also in our favor, the score being 28-7.

The third game came after the holidays. Our star forward was so unfortunate as to have the "flu". This put our team "on the bum." But under this great difficulty, and many changes in our team, we went to Fayette, Missouri, and beat Howard Payne, 18-12, and Central Co-ed, 16-15.

The next week, after our return home, Hannibal High came down to beat us, so they said. But we hung the "crepe" for them, as we came out with a score of 18-5.

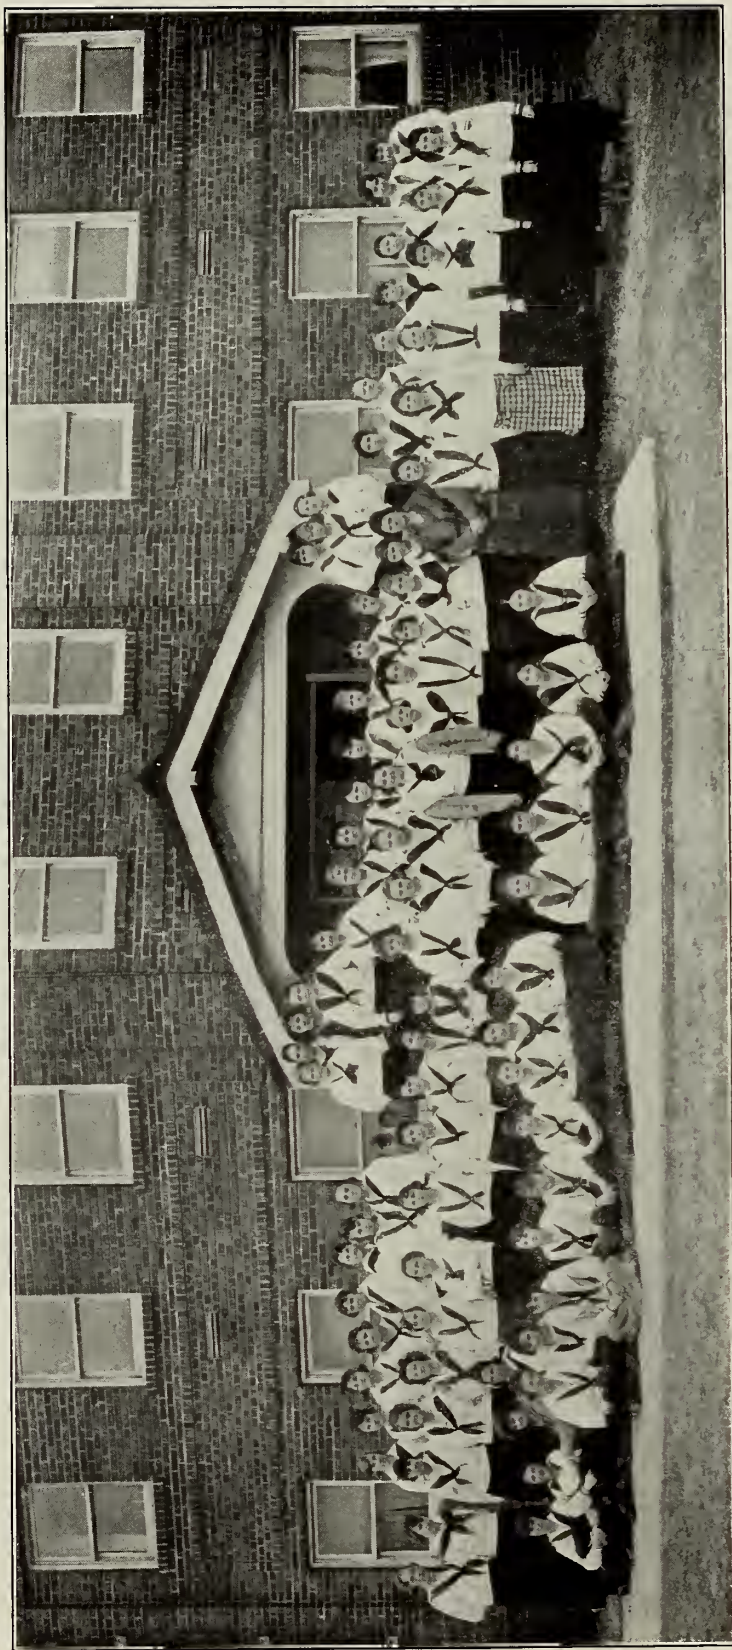

Our sixth game was played on our court with Howard Payne. This was the fastest game of the season, also a very hard one. But luck was with us and the game ended 19-11 in Hardin's favor.

Hardin's successful season closed with a game with Central Co-ed. This was the hardest game of the entire season, but with the good training of our sextette we won with a score of 14-11. This is the second year that Hardin has put out an undefeated team. Both years we have had the honor of being the champion girl basket ball team of Missouri. So here's to Hardin of the future. May she always have a champion basket ball team and keep the good record.

The Mathematics Club

The Mathematics Club was organized, having as its members all the students of college mathematics. "B²" was the motto chosen. This group of students was organized to study the interesting topics relative to mathematics, but independent of the regular course of study.

At the first meeting the following officers were elected: President, Betty Ames; Secretary and Treasurer, Viola Nipp. It was decided that the members of the Calculus Class should act as the program committee in determining the topics for discussion at the meetings of the club. This committee is composed of Misses Alice Faris, Edith England and Margaret Yager. The club has as its sponsor Miss Caldwell, the "math" teacher.

The regular meetings of the club are held monthly. At the first meeting two mathematicians, Newton and Lubnitz, were studied. Since there is a dispute as to which was the greater contributor to calculus, much interest followed during the discussion led by the two leaders. This topic was followed by a very interesting series of mathematical puzzles and a demonstration on paper folding. This led to much fun, coupled with that in the solving. This program seems to show what the other programs will be like. It indicates the general purpose of the club.

The last meeting of the club, which will be held in May, will consist of a "May-morning" picnic and hike into the country, with a few mathematical games.

SOCIETY

September 20th

Our Gym opened its doors in the first social event of the school year when the Y. W. C. A. entertained the students, old and new, with a reception. Upon entering the scene of festivity, one registered with a teacher, as in real school life, and then the stunt of the evening was presented. Members of the Faculty were sketched therein, and the result was decidedly true to life, and as decidedly side-splitting. They were: President Million, Myrna Wright; Mrs. Richardson, Marie Laswell; Miss Milliken, Florence Pond; Miss Hildebrand, Bernice Montgomery; Miss Shotwell, Mabel Clarke; Mr. Peeler, Tom Johnson; Dr. Manchester, Ozetta Morris; Miss Blandford, Leota Hartenbower; Miss Wallace, Leota Wilhite; Mrs. Turner, Agnes Atterbury; Miss Pilcher, Lois McCormick. After this presentation, a general social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served in the "classrooms," and unique diplomas were given as souvenirs.

September 30th

In the late afternoon of September 30th, a large number of Hardinites journeyed over to the other side of Mexico to the Missouri Military Academy, and there experienced the first "get-together" of the year between the two schools. After the girls went through the receiving lines and had their arms almost pulled off by the cordial, though energetic, cadets, a general social hour and the inevitable good time were shown. Dinner was served informally—cafeteria style—wherein the girls learned what "company cooking" at M. M. A. is; and after more talk and the furtherance of acquaintances the girls came home. It was here that many of the romances of this year's history were started, and do you wonder that the postman was overworked for the next week?

October 4th

Saturday night, October 4th, was "stunt night." The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet and the losers in the Y. W. C. A. membership race staged the stunt in the nature of a moving picture for the benefit of the winners in the race, and the student body. The movie, featuring an all-star cast, was entitled, "An International Romance, or Love's Sacrifice." The scenario was written by the Y. W. C. A. Miss Mary Blanche Hildebrand and the all-stars proved to be none other than: Lady Clara Vere de Vere (played by Pauline Frederick), Genevieve De Witt; Handsome Harry (played by William S. Hart), Leoti Hartenbower; Bonnie Nell, the darling of the plains (played by Helen Holmes), Ruth Noah; Chief Wildcat (played by Cullen Landis), Myrna Wright; Jim, the bad man of the plains (played by E. K. Lincoln), Margaret Yager. The director of the movie was Alice Johnson. After the "thriller," as in all good movies, came the comedy, "And the Villain Still Pursued Her." These players consisted of Charlie Chaplin, Lillian Adams; Theda Bara, Agnes Atterbury; Blanche Sweet, Mabel Hill; Desperate Ambrose, Sue Jo Hood. After this presentation, an informal reception was held.

October 13th

The Missouri Club members were dinner guests at the Hoxsey Hotel. They made their presence known by means of cheers, songs and speeches. An elaborate four-course dinner was served, and everyone enjoyed themselves to the extent of their capacity.

October 18th

The Oklahoma Club members entertained themselves with a dinner at the Hoxsey Hotel and later attended the Orpheum. The banquet hall of the Hoxsey Hotel was attractively decorated with red and white (club colors), and the dinner was the best ever.

October 22nd

The Kansas Club, which had just been organized, betook itself into the woods about one mile and then proceeded to enjoy the customary good time of a real weiner roast. They were chaperoned by Mrs. J. H. Wing of Muskogee, Misses Crouch and McQuoid, and Mr. Lindsay, official mascot. They returned late, tired but happy.

October 23rd

The Dramatic Club entertained the student body and the faculty with a delightful tea from four till six. The parlors were attractively decorated with autumn leaves, ferns, and the club colors, rose and silver. Readings were given by Seniors of Expression, and Post-Graduates. Those who read were: Bess Gwyn, Lillian Adams, Geraldine Gregory, Leota Hartenbower, Thelma Irwin. Tea was poured by the wives of the Board members, and was served by the Juniors in Expression. This affair was the very creditable offering of Miss Vera Blandford, head of the Expression Department.

November 1st

One of the cleverest and most unique affairs of the year was the Halloween Masque Dance. In the center of the Gym was a huge well, in which one might find hidden mysteries. Bales of straw, with pumpkins, autumnal shrubbery and other seasonable decorations added to the festivity of the scene. Unusual programs were given as favors, and splendid music was furnished. Chinamen, little girls, ghosts, banditti, carmen, "vamps," "Before and After I Came to Hardin," ballet dancers, and all other types of masqueraders joined in the grand march. Much "pep" was evident at this enjoyable party. Refreshments were served by the Y. W. C. A., and the girls tripped home at last, giving a great vote of thanks to the energetic Y. W. C. A., which had made such a good time possible.

November 5th

The Cosmopolitan Club entertained with a line party, enjoying the Orpheum and refreshments at the Tea Shop. Miss Hildebrand, the sponsor, chaperoned.

November 12th

First Open House of the season after the Hardin-Troy game was held. Open House has since been held on November 22nd, January 16th, March 12th, and numerous other times.

December 16th

An informal dance was given under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Music was furnished by a local orchestra, and a general good time enjoyed.

December 16th

The Cadets of M. M. A. gave an informal dance with girls from Hardin as guests of honor. Their Gym was attractively decorated, and light refreshments were served throughout the evening. Dances by the Cadets have been given since then on January 10th, February 21st, March 6th and March 20th.

February 14th

A formal dance was given at the Gym under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Programs were sold during the day by the Y. W. C. A., thus creating much expectancy and enthusiasm. The Gym was decorated with hearts and other emblems of the season, and the lights were shaded to a delightful degree of darkness. Music was furnished by a town orchestra, and refreshments were served throughout the evening.

February 16th

One of the most exciting days of the year at Hardin was Pledge Day, when the three sororities received pledges at four o'clock in the afternoon. Beta Chapter of Eta Upsilon Gamma announced the pledging of Anne Callison, Suzanne Dickson, Mabel Hill, Dorothy Johnston, Anne Long, Violet Lowe, Alta Soderstrom, Frances Tyson, Montana Russell and Virginia Snidow. Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Omicron pledged Flossie Daniels, Bonnie Enloe, Elizabeth Ames, Elizabeth Henry, and Mazelle Pollard. Omicron Chapter of Sigma Iota Chi pledged Wilda Gresham, Dorothy Powell, Allie Burton Parrish, Louise Patrick, Marie Frazer, and Anita Johnson.

February 19th

Pledge Day for Phi Theta Kappa, honorary sorority, was observed February 19th. Dog, cat, hen, pup, owl, and other animals, appeared at breakfast with charming dunce-caps placed snugly on their heads. Upon looking closely we found them to be no others than Allie Burton Parrish, Margaret Wilson, Ruth Noah, Eliza Martin, Katherine Shoop, Cleo Bankhead, Alice Johnson, Margaret Yager, and Marguerite Shackelford.

March 4th

The "Cracker-Barrel" Club, composed of the entire aggregation of town girls, entertained the Club with a noon-time feed. Mrs. Richardson and Miss Herron were invited as guests of honor, and also to enjoy the food, which was not at all in accordance with the entirely original name of this body, as one would suppose.

True College Spirit

"Oh! I simply hate Hardin! I'm going home," commented the Freshman.

"My dear! My dear!" consoled the Senior. "Why, you will love it in a couple of weeks. We have the dearest girls! You will adore every one of them. And our Faculty! Better teachers can't be found anywhere than right here in this school. Just wait until you have met them all.

"Come with me. You haven't seen any of our buildings. This is our auditorium, the biggest and best in any Junior College in Missouri. It is here that we come to be entertained by the best artists that money can procure, as well as to hear our own girls, many of whom are wonderfully talented. That section on the south side, just opposite our section, is always reserved for the M. M. A. cadets; so you see we have a dandy view of each other.

"What! You don't mean to say you haven't seen our dining-hall? Here it is—so light and spacious, isn't it? My dear, we have the best food—served well and attractively, too! Our Sunday dinners are perfectly wonderful. You will want to stay for them if for nothing else.

"While we are here, just take a peep at that big kitchen. Did you ever see a cleaner or neater one? All of the newest culinary equipment has been installed, so you could hardly expect anything but good eats.

"Just across from our dining-hall is our library and study-hall. You must see it! Here we have our chapel exercises, led by Dr. Million or our Dean. I know you are going to enjoy chapel, just as every one else does.

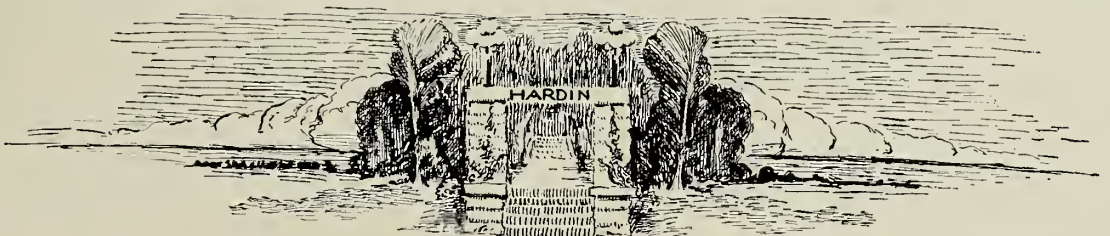

"Now these class rooms, of course, could be better, but goodness! You are in them only an hour at a time. Anyway it isn't the room that counts, it's the teacher; and as I said before, we have the best teachers to be found anywhere.

"And the gym! How dear to my heart are the scenes of this place! After dinner we dance over here, and sometimes the Y. W. C. A. pulls off a party or stunt, and of course we have good times then! We have the liveliest Y. W. in the state. And our basketball games! Such exciting ones you never saw in your life! Why, our basketball girls are the champions—so 'nuff said.

"Just look at that now! Doesn't that pool make you wish you were a mermaid, so you could stay in the water all the time? Do you swim? Well, you can learn easily enough. Mr. Lindsey is a fine instructor and can teach you with just a few lessons. Whoop! There goes the dinner bell! Let's run, for Mrs. Richardson doesn't approve of our being late.

"Oh, you old dear! I just knew you would love the school, if you could once see everything. Now don't forget our slogan, 'Blow Hardin's Horn.'

September

- 16 School opens. Lots of students and trunks come on the train, mostly trunks. Also lots of industrious students and otherwise, mostly otherwise.
- 17 Dr. Million tells us about "Greater Hardin" the first time we assemble.
- 18 Miss Boyd of St. Louis talks to us in chapel. She promised to give us a big write-up in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. She got a lot of those St. Louis millionaires interested in "Greater Hardin."
- 19-22 Picture Exhibition of the famous Missouri artists in the halls, in charge of the Federated Clubs of the State of Missouri.
- 20 Reception given by the Y. W. C. A. for the students and faculty of the college. The Freshmen graduated that night from the College of Hard Knocks.
- 22 Miss Pilcher gave a studio tea, introducing Prof. Garrison. Mr. Lindsey gave an exhibition in the swimming pool. He certainly can swim, even if he is fat.
- 30 Missouri Military Academy entertained the students and faculty of Hardin with a picnic luncheon on the campus. (Our first impression of the cadets was an infinitely long line of khaki to shake hands with.) The luncheon was grand, sitting around the little lake on the grass. "Taps" came entirely too soon.

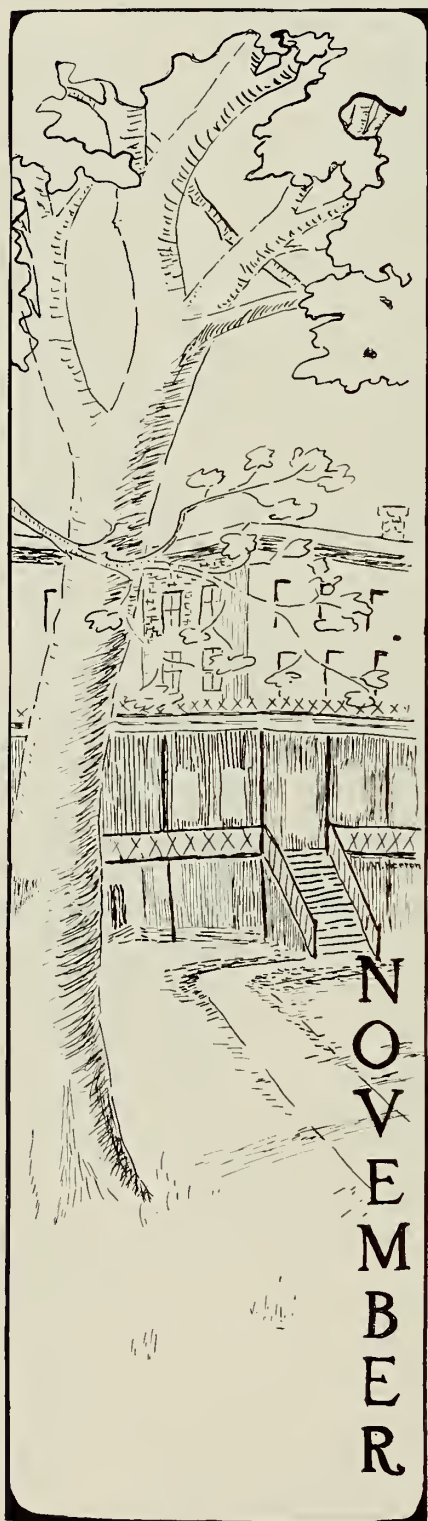

October

- 1-4 Y. W. C. A. has a drive for membership.
- 2 The drivers of the cars were very successful in bringing so many of the girls into the fold of the Y. W. C. A. The losers of the contest gave a scenario in the Gym. (We have a bunch of actors in the school. If Lillian Adams keeps on, Charlie Chaplin will have to quit the business.)
- 4 Reception for the Federated Clubs in the college parlors from 4:00 to 5:30.
- 8 Faculty recital given in the Auditorium before the Federated Clubs at 8:00.
- 10 Recital in Auditorium by Prof. Manchester and Prof. Garrison of the Conservatory.
- 12 Missouri Club organized. They sure showed some "pep."
- 13 Riding Club organized. We feared some wobbly horse would fall down with some shaky girl.
- 14 Missouri Club took dinner at the Hoxsey. That "Missouri Mule" created a great deal of excitement in the hotel.
- 16 Oklahoma Club organized. We thought the Sioux had come to Missouri.
- 18 Oklahoma Club dined at the Hoxsey. We heard nothing, but "Who Can? We Can, Tin Can—Missouri!"
- 19 Miss Patten, a missionary from China, talked to us in the chapel about her work.
- 22 Kansas Club had a hike and a weiner roast.
- 29 Roosevelt memorial meeting in chapel this morning. Mr. Hawthorne, Superintendent of Schools, led the meeting.

November

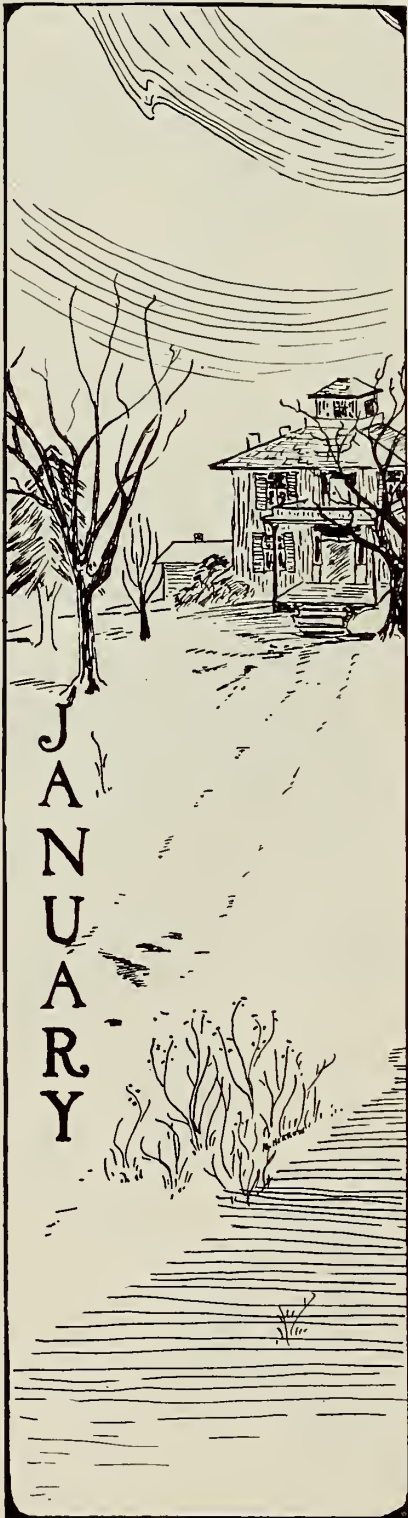

- 1 Big Halloween dance in the Gym. Biggest array of freaks ever turned loose on Hardin campus.
- 4 Big parade today down town. Past Hardin, Present Hardin, and Future Hardin, were represented. The Missouri Military Academy and the Mexico Public Schools paraded with us.
- 5 Cosmopolitan Club, thirteen states and the Dominion of Canada, had a picture show party and lunch at the "Tea Room."
- 6 Harold Proctor and company entertained the student body in the Auditorium.
- 7 Basketball game between "Golds" and "Blacks." The "dorm" was divided into halves. One-half supported the "Golds" and the other half supported the "Blacks."
- 7-8 Convention of the older boys and girls of Audrain County at the Christian Church. Some of our older girls attended.
- 12 Very fateful day for Troy when they met Hardin in their own Gym, and got beat.
- 22 Montreville Wood, scientist and lecturer, talked and demonstrated some scientific inventions of the past war.
- 24 Triple recital in the Auditorium by Mr. Garrison, Misses Shotwell and Wallace.
- 27 Thanksgiving! We had the best turkey dinner served at Hardin since the school has been here, even if we did have to wait until 2:30 for it.
- 28 Champ Clark addressed the student body in the Assembly Hall.

December

- 1 This is the month when no one wants to study, and very few do. Hardin is not an exception to the rule in any sense.
- 4 The girls have already begun to buy their Christmas presents that they are going to take home.
- 6 Everybody has the "going home" craze.
- 11 It is no longer a craze. Some have started for home. They laid it onto the coal strike, but we bet it wasn't that at all.
- 15 The Dramatic Club gave their semi-annual play in the Auditorium this evening. "Pygmalion" is the craze of the school. The actors are nearly crazy, too, from long hours of practice.
- 17 M. M. A. could not afford to let Hardin get ahead of them. They gave two plays in the Auditorium. They were Christmasy and we could hardly wait until the 18th.
- 18 It is here at last! By noon today there was hardly anyone left to cook lunch for. Girls, trunks, grips, suitcases, and all that accompany, have been leaving all night long. No one could sleep—no one wanted to very much. We're going home. Hurrah!

January

- 6 Oh! We certainly did hate to leave Pa and Ma and little Johnnie and Susie. We're back now. How long will it be until June?
- 7 We see all sorts of diamond rings running around in the hall. They say they are Christmas presents from Mother and Father, but they have the nerve to wear them on their left hands. What's that the sign of, girls?
- 11 Myrtle Faite gave a talk on the Student Volunteer Convention that she attended at Des Moines during the holidays.
- 12 The snow was fine, so a party went for a "bob-sled" ride this afternoon.
- 13 Prof. Nantz lectured to us on "New Citizenship."
- 24 Montague Light Opera Company was at the Auditorium tonight. Everyone liked pretty Miss Montague and also Mr. Thomas' eyes.
- 25 Arthur Middleton, bass baritone, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang for us in the Auditorium.
- 25-30 Exams! There was weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth.

February

- 2 The historic groundhog is so incautious as to see his shadow.
- 3 The Missionary Committee gave a Japanese tea in the parlors after lunch.
- 4 Concert in the Auditorium by Reed Miller and Nevada Van der Veer.
- 5-6 "Passing Show" given by American Legion in the college Auditorium. All teachers on guard at Auditorium doors to keep intruding students away.
- 9 Grand rush to have pictures taken for the Ion begins. Dr. Million calls for volunteers to help in the dining room while regulars are ill. The girls respond readily.
- 11 Basketball game between M. M. A. and Kemper. Girls are allowed to go in the balcony and not to talk to boys—"flu."
- 14 Sale of hearts, directed by Helen Hart, all day Saturday. Big Valentine dance in Gym Saturday night.
- 16 Gammas, Beta Sigs, Sigmas pledge new sorority members.
- 19 Phi Theta Kappa pledge nine. Dog, Rat, Cat, Pig, Bat, Cow, Hen, Pup and Ant wore becoming dunce caps all day everywhere they went.
- 22 George Washington's birthday. Frances Tyson wanted a bit of prominence by claiming she was born on the same day with this great man.
- 23 Every club had its picture taken this morning. Missouri Mule created a great deal of excitement on the campus today. Basketball girls left at 12:45 for Lexington and Fayette to play Central and Howard Payne. Big "pep" parade in the dining room at noon to give them a good send-off.
- 23 Annual staff flying around like chickens with their heads off. The only time they ever had wings, maybe the last time. Everybody busy on the annual.
- 25 Our girls came home victorious after two basketball games. The schools they played were Howard Payne and Central. A big crowd met the victors at the station.
- 26 The annual staff had charge of the chapel exercises this morning. It was "peppy" from start to finish. The school statistics were taken for the most popular, prettiest, wittiest girls in the school. When we voted on the biggest crush and were told it might be a teacher, the student body went wild.
- 27 There was a "peppy" basketball game in the Gym tonight between Hardin and Hannibal High School, and Kemper Military Academy and M. M. A. Hardin and M. M. A. won their games. The Hardin girls entertained the Hannibal girls in the parlors afterward.
- 29 Today is one of the seven wonders of the world. Not only is it the only 29th of February in four years, nor the only fifth Sunday of February in one hundred years, but Dr. Million came home today from a trip to New York, where he met with a committee of the Northern Baptist Board and succeeded in getting $250,000 for Greater Hardin. A delegation of the presidents of the different college organizations went to the train to meet him. In the afternoon the Social Service Committee of the Y. W. C. A. gave a program at the King's Daughters Home.

March

- 1 March came in like a lamb, but woe to us when it goes out.
- 2 The Baptist girls were so disappointed because the Student banquet planned for tonight, to be given by the Baptist Church, fell through. They will give it soon, nevertheless. The Gooch home, across the street from the campus, burned just after lunch. Everyone acted as if she had never seen a fire. Every class that possibly could get out, hurried to the scene of commotion.
- 5 The Expression Department gave a recital in the Auditorium this afternoon. There were two "peppy" basketball games at the Gym tonight. Hardin won the game from Howard Payne and the Mexico All Stars won from M. M. A. All four teams were splendid.
- 10 This afternoon in the Auditorium there was a Student Recital representing the Conservatory.
- 11 Miss Helen Shotwell of the Conservatory gave a recital in the Auditorium tonight. She demonstrated to the students, as well as to the people of Mexico, what splendid talent Hardin has. She was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Buckner, soprano. Mrs. Buckner is also a former student of Hardin.
- 12 Tonight we had a basketball game with Central College, of Fayette. We won, of course. This game made Hardin the champions of the season. Hurrah for the Hardin team! The All Stars also played the Military Academy. The former won the game after a hard fight.
- 17 Miss Pilcher, assisted by the String Orchestra, gave a beautifully appointed dance in the Auditorium.
- 22 We were especially favored with a rare musical treat tonight by the Chamber Music Society of New York City. These eleven musicians are members of the New York Symphony Orchestra. This was beyond doubt one of the very best companies of musicians that has ever visited Mexico.
- 23 Today the "ION" goes to press and you should see everyone flying around. The annual staff is putting everyone through.

Dear "ION", we wish that you would bring us the cream of the land in the line of girls for next year. Here's all the success in the world for your circulation.

THEY ♥ SAY—

Miss Crouch, in Caesar Class: "What comes after a verb of saying?"
Elizabeth Henry: "Why, what he said."

On Chemistry Paper: "Molecules are little moles."
On Botany Paper: "The guard cells have stomachs."

During the Troy game Mabel Leahy called "time-out." She wanted a cake of chewing gum.

Lois McCormick: "My ancestors were all people with brains."
Dorothy Johnston: "Too bad you were disinherited."

Allie B. Parrish, in Botany: "There are certain organizations in roots that help to form nitrates."
Thelma Theobold: "I am so glad that we don't have student body here, because if we did we couldn't do a single thing."

Miss Hildebrand: "We seem to have some budding poets."
Helen Gresser: "Most of them, though, are frostbitten."

Margaret Wilson: "There will be a Senior meeting at four o'clock this afternoon. I shall have the bell rung several times at four."

Mrs. Burns asked Miss Hildebrand if she thought chili would agree with young Billie. No wonder she thought Miss H. an authority on babies, after listening to quotations from "My Niece, Adele."

Monk Robinson: "Gosh! Isn't it raining?"
Florence Nolin: "Never mind; take Mrs. Richardson's umbrella, then perhaps she won't so much mind your coming back."

Frances Tyson: "I will never marry a man unless he knows how to make love romantically."
Susanne Dickson: "I prefer one who can make money steadily."

Rosebud McPherson: "Did you see where a singer has come back from Paris with a dress full of mirrors?"
Mabel Clarke: "That idea must have required a great deal of reflection."

Miss Crouch: "I met George last night. He told me he was on his way to propose to the prettiest girl in town."
Bonny Motley: "The fibber; he didn't come near me."

Mr. Peeler: "Do you believe that the thought of a husband and wife become identical?"
Dr. Manchester: "I do. For example, my wife is waiting for me now, and she knows just what she is going to say, and so do I."

"Betty, you are some sport."
"I beg your pardon. I don't take part in athletics at Hardin."

Rose Tayrien: "Mrs. Turner, may I be excused from Gym today?"
Mrs. Turner: "Why?"
Rose: "I have asthma on my hands."

Miss Blandford: "Thank you, Helen, for giving me so much butter. The good, the just, and the beautiful get all they want."
Helen Kincaid: "Not at all. I just wanted to save myself from so much trouble."

Found on Chemistry quiz paper: "CH₂O—Sea Water."

Miss Milliken is sweet and kind,
She always has us on her mind,
When we are distressed,
Our spirits depressed,
In her a friend we can find.

Oh, ho! Come on, jump in,
Let Lindsay teach you to swim,
And make true your wish
To swim like a fish
And like him get sylph-like and thin.

There once was a lady who captured
a Million;
Had she had her voice trained she would now have a billion,
Because of her fright,
She wasn't given the right,
So now she has only five Million.

There was a Prof named John,
Who beat into us poly-con,
Tho' he talked night and day
Nobody could say
That any girl ever caught on.

There once was a Prof named Peeler,
Who on the side was a real estate
dealer,
Don't ask me why—
He had to or die,
For he had to have nuf to feed her.

There is a fine music director
Whose name is Dr. Manchester;
He says, "Sing in tune
And don't start too soon,
That song, pray don't quite dissect her."

There is a teacher named Vance,
Who can both talk and dance;
She is pretty and slim,
And always looks trim,
That's why she has a fine chance.

We have a teacher named Garrison,
Who plays quite beyond comparison;
His stature is short,
And in looks he's some sport,
But alack!—his attentions they vary none.

Mrs. Turner, who teaches us gym,
Always does it with vigor and vim;
She's popular, too,
Has beaux not a few,
And keeps up with style's every whim.

In the annex across the way,
Lives little Miss Ethel K.;
She teaches us to cook
Without any book
When we get married some day.

We all are so fond of Miss Herron,
But somehow we're always a fearin'
She'll see us some day
And ask us to pay
A "fine" that we owe the librarian.

Miss Moeckle is so calm and quiet,
Never would she start a riot;
But she makes some breeze
When she tickles the keys,
Her speed—you can never come nigh it.

Mrs. Richardson is dear and sweet—
As a dean she is hard to beat;
But when she says "No,"
And says it just so,
We cannot go out on the street.

Miss Woodin, our teacher of voice,
Surely has cause to rejoice;
Her pupils can sing
Most any old thing,
And truly she is their choice.

There was an assistant named Helen,
Who surely knew how to tell 'em;
When Art fees were late,
Or when having a date,
Helen was there with her yellin'.

Hey, diddle diddle, Miss "Pil" and her fiddle,
Surely are a fine pair;
When they are about
There's never a doubt,
There is music in the air.

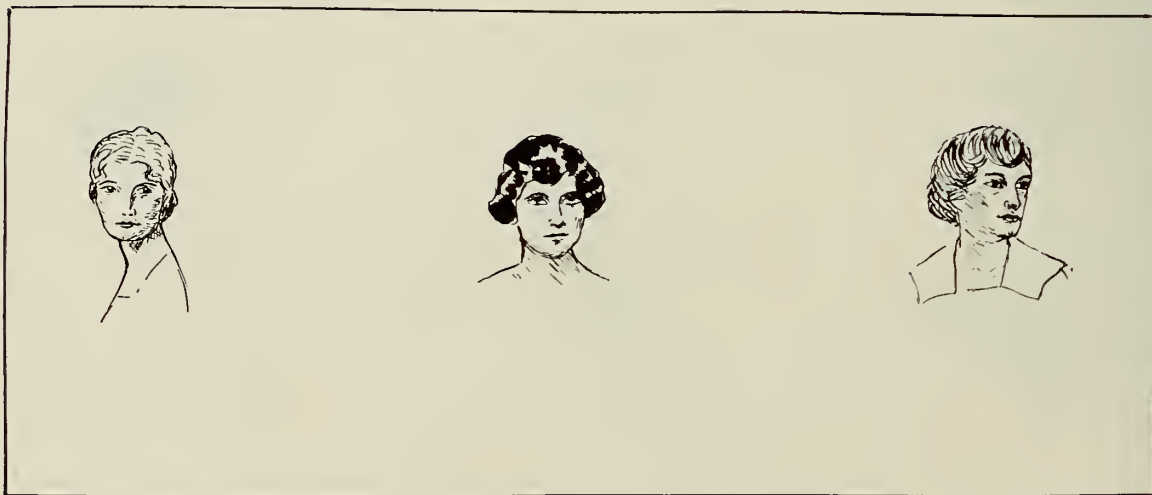

Oh, Shackelford is the last name
Of our critically artistic dame;
Tho she goes on a rush
To hunt her paint brush,
She gets her work done just the same.

There is a young lady, McQuoid,
Whom practice cutters avoid,
For most stern is she,
And it's plain as can be,
Of mercy she is quite devoid.

Miss Hildie's our English tutor,
And nothing can better suit her
Than to talk all the day
For Y. W. C. A.—
Do you wonder we wish we could mute
her?

In Math Miss Caldwell is a gun,
At Hardin all hearts she has won,
For with her fine mind
She is most good and kind.
And enjoys our frolic and fun.

There's a teacher who is pretty and sweet,
And you never see any more neat;
She knows her art well,
Miss Helen Shotwell,
And to hear her play is a treat.

Miss Wallace is built on grand lines,
Her voice surely knows no confines;
She is one Hardin dame
Who'll be known to fame,
And that before many moons shine.

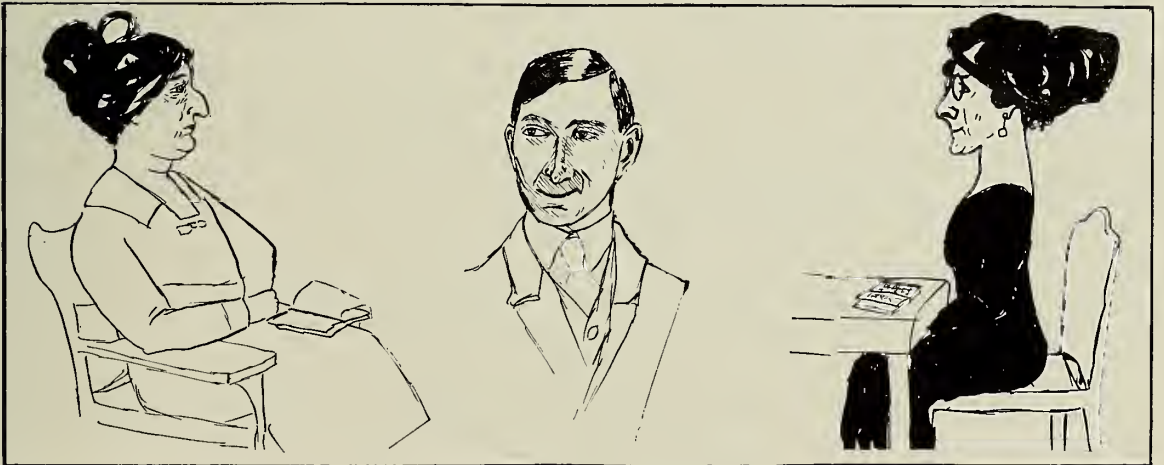

She can dance, she can sing,
She can do most anything;
She is sweet,
She's petite,
Our Miss Rutter's in the ring.

There is a teacher named Coots,
Whose hair doth curl at the roots;
On the piano she whangs,
On the dummy she bangs,
Till the music her fancy suits,

Another Doctor came our way
When Preacher Burns arrived one day;
There is no doubt
That he's a good scout—
We are glad he came to stay.

Miss Blandford's expression is art,
She makes us learn "pieces" by heart;
She teaches us how
To make a fine bow
When we have finished our part.

A fine Caesar class met one day,
'Twas taught by Miss Crouch, so they say;

But the pupils were lazy
Their brains were so hazy,
That they finally faded away.

Dr. Oakley, a fine history teacher,
You might mistake for a preacher;
He's always in place
To say Hardin's grace—
This pious and scholarly creature.

There was a teacher named Sutton,
Whose eye was like a jet button;
She could "parle francais,"
And espanol could say,
And she would not stand for class cuttin'.

MABEL LEAHY
CARTOONED

I wonder if there is any doubter
Who thinks Hardin could run without her?

Why, 'tis plain as can be,
She knows all Hardin C;
Miss Thornburg has that said about her.

There once was a lady named Humphrey,
Whose work was to quell any fray;
And at ten every night
She'd say, "Out with your light,"
And you'd better bet we would obey.

Dr. Oakley in History: "How many wars has the United States had?"

Geraldine G.: "Five."

Oakley: "Enumerate them."

Geraldine: "One, two three, four, five."

Ancient History quiz paper: "Among the memorable dates in history was Anthony's date with Cleopatra."

Hazel McIntyre: "Well, Agnes, what did you make on the Chemistry exam?"

Agnes: "Oh, I think about minus 273 degrees."

Hazel: "How could you make such a mark?"

Agnes: "Well, that's the absolute zero, isn't it?"

Miss Vance: "Give me an example of the double negative."

Marie Laswell: "I don't know none."

Wavelyn Schuler: "Don't you like to go to school?"

Louise Shirk: "Oh, I don't mind going to school, but I certainly do hate going to classes."

Yes, little Vampire,
If you sigh,
You'll get his frat pin
By and by

Science can cut through most anything except mental concrete.

Louise Patrick: "Have you any mail for me?"

Postman: "What's your name?"

Louise: "You'll find it on the envelope."

Mrs. Peeler: "That suit of yours looks as if you had slept in it."

Peeler: "Yes, of course; I wore it to church last Sunday."

From a Junior's diary: "Then came Mr. Middleton's recital. My joy ran high when I saw Danny Deever, but it fell below zero when he came on the stage and said he would have to cut the program short because he had a bad cold."

They are very particular at the bakery now. The clerks have to wear white gloves. Yes, and I am told they don't even let the lady-fingers touch the other cakes.

Miss Woodin: "Were you beckoning to me?"

Mrs. Richardson: "No, I was only laughing at you."

Lily Kirk to Librarian: "Have you Baker's 'Treasure Island' or 'The Floss on the Mill'?"

Dr. Oakley to Mabel Clarke, on back row: "Are you learning much about these lessons?"

Mabel: "No, sir; I was just listening to what you were saying."

Susanna Dickson: "I got zero in Spanish today."

Kathleen Harris: "That's nothing."

S. D.: "What's nothing?"

Kathleen: "Zero."

Let us teach Myrna Wright the difference between bottles of green ink and double sockets.

"What made Jo Jennings' hair turn red?"

Asked Cadet on parade.

"It's Spanish Class, it's Spanish Class,"

The Captain Crabill said.

"What happens in that Spanish Class?"

Asked Cadet on parade.

"I cannot tell, I cannot tell,"

The Captain Crabill said.

"But they say Jo never goes to class,"

Said Cadet on parade.

"She takes no sass, she takes no sass,"

The Captain Crabill said.

For Sutton's on a tear—

You can tell it by her hair.

"When it comes to deep, dark secrets

And that look of 'I don't care,'

You can hear that woman roar,

And quite a little more;

For it's Jennings and it's Dickson,

It's these two that make her sore."

—S. D.

Campus Costumes

Going down the walk one day
I saw a dreadful sight,
A girl dressed up "just fit to kill,"
Now really 'twas not right.

Upon her head she had Jo's hat,
The one of taffeta blue;
The coat she wore, all made of fur,
Was Ruth's—I know that's true.

The dress of blue looked very nice—
I've seen it on many girls—
And underneath the jaunty hat
Were someone's flaxen curls.

Upon her feet were Oxfords brown—
Along the walk she minced;
Two sizes small, I think they were,
For at each step she winced.

'Twould be an endless puzzle,
If the girl was seen afar,
To figure out just who and what
This strange dressed creature "war."

—A. L. W.

Oh, Chemistry and Botany
Are things that I most dread;
Though Peeler lectures constantly,
They pass above my head.

In Chemistry the formulas
And valence are defined,
But what they are and why they are
Just won't stay in my mind.

In Botany the guard cells,
With their stomates, are arranged
Among a million other cells
Too numerous to be named.

In Chemistry the sulphur
Makes just an awful smell,
And when it comes to chlorine,
Why, there's nothing more to tell.

In Botany I study beans
And parts of many leaves;
It all requires much note-book work
That does not give me ease.

So Chemistry and Botany
Are things that I most dread;
Though Peeler lectures constantly,
They pass above my head.

—C. B.

The orchestra softly played
"Kiss Me Again."
She gazed into his eyes
and breathed a sigh.
"Your dancing is like a poem,"
she said.
"Yes, yes, go on," he murmured.
"And any Lowell poem,
The feet
Are all mixed up," she murmured.

"Of all the people who make Hardin what it is today, who has the longest service record?"

"Why, President Million, of course."

"No; guess again."

"But President Million has been here twenty-five years. Why, it must be one of the Board."

"President Clark has served thirty-three years and Mr. Pollock thirty-two."

"No, it's neither of them."

"Mr. Guthrie has been treasurer thirty-nine years."

"You'll have to find someone else."

"Well, Smarty, tell us yourself."

"Do you all give up?"

"Yes, we all give up."

"It's Martha Scott Johnson."

"Martha!"

"Do tell us all about it."

"Well, you see, it was this way: Martha was hired out when she was little to be nurse-girl for Mrs. Terrall's baby. That was the first President's wife, you know, and the first baby, long years before our little Hardin Spirit was born. After a while she was a dining-room girl, and they did the hall work then—and it was some work. They had lamps in every room, and Martha had to help clean them; and each room had a stove, and a colored man went around every morning to make the fires and there were naughty girls in those days—"

"Bad as we are?"

"Oh, much worse. So these naughty girls would get up and put the fire out and excuse themselves for not getting up because the room was too cold. And Martha had to go through the hall and ring a big bell to call them to meals and to wake them in the morning. And she never had a day's schooling; but she was so eager to learn that she picked up reading and writing all by herself. And now she just caters, and we all know how good her fixings are; but The Ledger has written her up, and The Kansas City Star says somebody will get her away from us now. But we hope not, don't we?"

Viola Nipp (to new girl): "How do you do? My name is Nipp."
New Girl: "I am glad to meet you. But where is Tuck?"

Lillie Kirk: "I went down town today and had my hair massaged and face shampooed."

Lillian Adams (at breakfast one morning): "Eggs are 75 per dozen now. I just know that they give us egg plant or some other kind of egg substitute."

The following is from a theme written by one of the Juniors: "The father has a worried expression, possibly over some business affair, and makes a poor attempt to conceal his state of mind by a jocular remark about the turkey, which passes over the head of the company."

Mr. Peeler: "There are two things that seem exceedingly simple to me—Chemistry and my Chemistry class."

Bonbons and roses, the young girl supposes,
Surround every wife;
But, oh! how she'll shiver when onions and liver
Come into her life.

Freddie Williams wanted some denatured alcohol, but she called for unnatural alcohol.

Mr. Oakley, in Psychology: "Students, are you laughing at me?"
Students: "No, sir."
Oakley: "What else is there to laugh at?"

Miss Hildebrand in Eng. 6: "Who was Shakespeare's mother?"
Tom Johnson: "Mrs. Shakespeare."

Mr. Oakley in American Hist.: "Many of the presidents were lawyers, but the first one was not. Why was this?"
Myrna Wright: "Because he couldn't tell a lie."

Dr. Million: "What are you reading, daughter?"
Helen: "A novel entitled, 'The Heart of Geraldine'."
Million: "Umph—rubbish, I suppose."
Helen: "Yes, dad. It's a book you presented to mother years ago."

Myrtle Fait: "We have a baseball player in our choir."
Gertrude Graham: "I suppose he always knows how to pitch his voice."

Marie Miller: "There is a lady at home who is so interested in Hardin."
Mrs. Richardson: "Who is she?"
Marie: "Miss Jane Highnote."
Violet Lowe: "Did she take vocal?"

Rosebud Mc: "Is my hair all right now?"
Alta Soderstrom: "Yes, I don't believe it could look worse."

Miss Kesinger: "I just stopped to tell you about that flour you sent out for the cooking class."
Grocer: "Why, Madam, that is the very best flour made."
Miss Kesinger: "Indeed! Why, it was so tough we couldn't eat the biscuits we made with it."

Dena Allen: "I can't imagine why I feel so bad this morning; I didn't eat a thing last night but sandwiches, cookies, Welsh rarebit, jelly, olives, pickles, crackers, peanut butter, marshmallows, Hershey's, and a few more things."
